MR. BLAINE'S ADDRESS TO THE REPUBLIC ANS OF BEDFORD, IND.

BRDFORD, Ind., October 16.—A crowd of several thousand was at the depot when the train arrived, bearing Mr. Blaine and party. The Maine statesman was generously applianced and frequently interrupted during his speech by shouts of approvas.

As Mr. Blaine stepped out on the platform he said: "All the Republicans of Indiana seem to be out to-day. (Great cheering and a voice: 'Be still and let's hear him speak.') My Republican friends, it is the effort of the Damocratic party to paramade the Western States that the protective tariff is all for the benefit of the East. I know that this town of Bedford and county of Lawrence is very largely interested in building stone. I have seen it in many cities of the Union, one of the most beautiful stones known in the United States. Herefolore you have had a pretective duty against the stones in Canada. They have various and valuable stones in the Dominion and the Mills bill, which I hold in my hand, strikes down all the protection which the tariff has hitherto given to the building stones of the United States (Cheers and cries of "That's so."] If that bill is passed and becomes a law all the building stones of Canada along the St. Lawrence and along the great lakes will have cheap transportation to the great stells, Detroit, Milwaukee, Chicago, Cieveland, Buffalo, and, in fact, all fine cities of the great Northwestern States, and they can reach these points cheaper than you can who have to transport your building stones by rail. They will have cheaper transportation, and, therefore, instead of putting you on an equality with the building stones of the Dominion of Canada, the Mills bill goes clear over and gives the preference to the Dominion stones, and puts you at a disadvantage. You are asked here in Indiana to support that the trade movement, but I do not believe you will do it in this county. [Cries of 'Newer, never.']

"The people of Indiana are about as intelligent as any people in the United States, and I am sure they know too much to support a tariff bill that strik willard Spenser's "Little Tycoon," which receives its initial presentation here after a stage existence of two seasons.

The only standards of ju gment possible in the single performance of an opera are the first impressions which it produces on the hearer and which to a large extent preclude critical analysis. That comes truer and better on closer acquaintance. Weighed on the scales of first impressions the opera discloses favorable and unfavorable points, but the balance is largely in favor of the former. That it is thoroughly pleasing and is bright, rollicking and melodious musically is the first conclusion, that it lacks spontaneous comedy sparkle in the situations and lines is another conclusion, and that the performance gains whatever excellence it possesses more from the harmony of the company than from individual brilliancy is a third patent fact.

The opera impresses one somewhat with a lack of skillful and experienced mastery of construction and a lack of ready and nimble wit in the uniting of the lines. It needs spontaneity and finish. As for the music it is unasually rion in melodies of a light but pleasing order and in rippling, inspiring waltz and march movements.

The production has bright points in it and quaint, amusing conceits. Among the musical gems may be mentioned, "Love is Like a summer Sigh," "Tell Me Daisy," the "Fatai Step" air, a quick-step march in the last act, in fact several duets and solos deserve particular attention, all of the music being entirely attractive in the line of light opera.

One noticeable feature of the performance was the lack of the excessively broad buriesque work which distinguishes most comic opera productions and the dependence more on a harmonious ensemble and on pure comedy elements than on the fun-making ability of a star-clown. The company, however, is not strong vocally, and with one of two exceptions gave very moderate proof of sallity in comedy inees. Still the members acted well, and in this way made a favorable impression. Miss Ledyard, the with one or two exceptions gave very moderate proof of ability in comedy innes. Still the members acted well, and in this way made a favorable impression. Miss Ledyard, the Violet, has a seedy, unsympathetic voice, but is vivacious, attractive and graceful; Fred Lennox as Gen. Knickerbocker did excellent work and made hits with two songs, "When I Was a Boy" and "That's What I Think, Don't You?" Joseph Nealy as Teddy was thoroughly amusing; a funny conceit in the way of an English lord was given by Mr. McGovern as Lord Doiphin, and of the others it can only be said that they were satisfactory and pleasing.

The production was beautifully staged and coatumed, the Japanese costumes in the fete scene of the last act being remarkably rioh and striking. Of the impression of the opera on the audience there can be no question. It was entirely favorable, laughter and applause greeting all the best comic and musical points.

There will be matiness at all the theaters to-morrow with "Little Tycoon" at the Grand, "Harbor Lights" at the Olympic, "Twelve Temptations" at the People's, "From Sire to Son" at Pope's, and Lily Clay's Burlesquers at the Standard.

The sale of seats for the Booth and Barrett engagement at the Olympic next week will commence Thursday morning. This season the tragedians bring all the scenery for the plays in their repertoire. A request has been sent to the Post-Disparche that Measrs. Booth and Barrett appear here in "King Lear," or which they gave so ripe and admirable a performance last season. A repetition of it this season would be welcome even should it displace anyone of the other plays.

Nat C. Goodwin is booked for a reign of comedy at the Grand next week, the sale of season opening on Thursday.

"Lights and Shadows," the new play by Charles Gaylor, which is credited with a hit, will be seen at the People's next week. Jacques Krueger in "Tompkin's Tragedy" at Pope's and "Under the Lash" at the Standard are the other bookings for next week.

Sometimes a man in line will have half dozen names to look up, being commissioned by his friends to see how their name transfer.

Sometimes a main in line will have used according to commissioned by his friends to see how their names stand.

THE TRANSFERS are very numerous. One man came into the office yesterday to have his residence changed from a house he had not lived in for ten years. Another came in and had his number changed and the figure h on the end of it taken off. He had just moved from the second story of the flats he occupied to the first floor, there being a door, and a number for each floor.

A common mistake has caused a good deal of delay and trouble which is the result of ignorance on the part of the voter, when the branch registration offices were established a large number took advantage of the opportunity and had their names enrolled. Later not having sufficient confidence in the branch offices they snatch a few hours' time from business and work and put in an appearance at the main office and register under the same name and from the same place as they did at the branch office. This is an offense against the law and can be punished as much as an attempt at registering under another name, Recorder Williams had a pile of memorands on his deak in reference to such registrations, which will go before the Board of Revisers and probably before the courts. The diaregard of social standing and the equality oftall voters is aptly illustrated at the registration office to-day. Every man, high or low, black or white, must take his place in the line and wait with the rest for his turn to come around. The police officers guarding the door cannot be persuaded. Attempts which result in failure are constantly made.

ONE FROMINENT LAWYER, who always carries a gold-headed cane, used his most convincing eloquence on some of the peelers this moraing without avail. He explained that he was unwell and had just returned from New York. He had important business that could not wait and must get his name on the books. His going will be a source of great regret to the members of his congregation, to whom his many admirable characteristics have much endeared him. Dr. Harris combines to a rare degree excellence both as a preacher and as pastor, and he was recognized as one of the leaders in the Baptist Association. He is a graduate of Georgetown College and of the Southern Baptist Theological Seminary. Before he came to this city he was pastor of the Baptist Church in Ss. Joseph. Mo., where he was very popular. When he accepted the call from this city he took hold of a church very much depicted, and in a little time greatly increased the congregation. He built the present church on Cabanne avenue, and it is entirely free from debt.

The Retreat of the Clergy. The derical retreat at St. Vincent's Church on Ninth street and Park avenue, was begun to-day and is being conducted by Most Rev. Archbishop William Henry Elder of Cincinnati. About fifty member of the clergy are making the retreat which will last until Saturday. A banquet was tendered the Archbishop last evening and he made an address. The retreat was begun this morning by the celebration of mass at 3 o'clock.

ports. Gen. Grant, in his annual message of 1870, called the attention of Congress to it, and asked for the same grant of retailatory power that President Cleveland lately presented, and within three or four months the foreign office at Loudon notified the Canadians that the view taken by them, of the treaty of 1818 was 'an extreme view'—I remember this expression in the dispatch—and that that point might be conceded to the United States. You will find that codes to the United States. You will and that this is an accurate statement of their position at that time. Of course I think we are right, but what I mean to say is that Great Britain is on record as saying that we are; for such I consider the effect of a statement that the consider the current of a statement that the Canadian position is an extreme one that should be given up.

"There are other things to be said on that matter, but I cannot speak for publication on armed conflict?"

"Well, let me see," said Secretary Whitney slowly. He seaned forward and belabored she burning log with the poker as he thought the matter over. Then he said, as he straightened up in his chair: "I suppose any one will admit that we would easily win if such a conflict employed legal counsel to thwart and defeat his efforts. It was this fight for the right, combined with its exposure of the true aims of the Hendricks Association, which gained for the Post-Disparch the welcome enmity of that organization. This is an enmity which the Post-Disparch the welcome enmity of that organization. This is an enmity which the Post-Disparch track the welcome enmity of the Post-Disparch the welcome enmity of the post-Disparch track the welcome enmity of the organization. This is an enmity which the Post-Disparch regards as the best evidence of its fidelity to the cause of honest Democracy.

A LESSON IN JOURNALISM.

The morning Waste Basket has been measuring up the columns of long primer drivel which it calls telegraph and, comparing the same with the genuine, fresh, crisp and newsy nonparell columns of the Post-Disparch and finding the total number of columns of Waste Basket drivel would go at her commerce. That is what the condict would resolve itself into on our side, and here are some of the facts for the thinking men. There is afloat every day in the year of English commerce the value of $200,000,000. Note that this tremendous value is afloat—daily. Great Britain's food supply is on the water all the time. We shall soon have a dozen cruisers faster than any of the English ironclade and these cruisers would attack the British wealth afloat, which would be at the mercy of our commerce destroyers."

"The fate of our navy then, depends upon the cruisers?"

dozen cruisers inster than any of the English ironclade and these cruisers would attack the British wealth adoat, which would be at the mercy of our commerce destroyers."

'The fate of our navy then, depends upon the cruisers?

'The attacking cruiser has every advantage. The English in their recent maneuvers experiment in this way. A cruiser was sent out into the Irish seas to act as a commerce destroyer. Four other cruisers, superior in speed and force, were sent out after her and the regular British squadron were notified to capture her. She eluded them all and in fifty four hours had captured fifty-seven prices, and when the detitions war closed, in about four days, she was still at large and ready to operate against British commerce.

'This illustrates the difficulty of suppressing fast commerce destroyers. The occan is pretty large, and to find any one it is difficult. Twelve vessels of the Baltimore type, such as we are now building, cruising across the lines of commerce enthe cessen would be able to destroy more property in ninety days than the entire English mavy would be able to reach and destroy more property in ninety days than the entire English mavy would be able to reach and destroy more our coast, and, mind you the property of Great British which is exposed to our attack does not consist of brownstone houses that people can get along without, but is the life of their nation—their food supply and the elements on which the existence of their business depends. We would be unable at present to stand up and fight their ironclads. This might affect our pride somewhat, and I hope that this situation will not long exist, but as to the rest of it we should be heard of Industry began its annual session in the Elka' Hall this morning. The Grand Lodge was called to order by Grand President M. H. Committee on Credentials was appointed and the lodge then adjourned to meet this evening to receive the reports of all committees. The Trustees, Grand Secretary and Grand Treasurer will also report. The Knights and Ladies of Industry is a home order, as it was founded in the State and its lodges have never extended outside the borders of Missouri. It is a social, secret and benevolent organization in which all members have equal rights and duties. The organization takes care of the sick and distressed, and citizens of the State of Missouri of every profession, business or occupation and to improve its members by giving moral and scientific lectures, to encourage each other in business, and to assist each other to obtain employment, to promote charity and benevolence and to aid the widows and orphans of dead members. This is the annual session of the Grand Lodge, and it will continue through the antire week. The order was incorporated in May, 187, and since then there have been only three deeths of members. The last of these occurred October 18, 1888, when John Casey of Golden Star Lodge No. 8 of Carondelet died. His wife received the amount of his benefit October 18, just three days after his death.

ILMA DI MURSKA.

The Once Panious Seprano Living in Per-orty and Obscurity.

NEW YORK, October 16.—Mme. Ilma di Murska, the once-tamous soprano, is now living in a single room in Washington Square in comparative poverty. She became one of the leading sopranos of Europe in 1885, and in 1875 she started on a tour around the world, her circuit including Australia and this country, where she arrived in 1874. She appeared hare again in opera in 1879, and about a year ago Mrs. Thurber ougaged her at a salary of 36.000 a year to teach singing in the Amercan Company. Mme. di Murska's eccentricities displeased the pupils who fell to her care and the angagement was speedily concelled by a payment of $1,000 in addition to $1,000, her first month's salary, which had been turned over on her arrival.

Meals Appear in Court.

George Hoefiner, the saloon and restaurant-keeper of Twelfth and Clark avenue, and R. B. Schwartzkopf, who had the fight with him at Seventh and Pine streets yesterday afternoon, were before Judge Cady this morning on counter charges of disturbing the peace. Schwartzkopf, while in jail, was the intimate friend of Maxwell and supplied the latter with meals. These meals came from Hoefiner's place, and the saloon keeper claims Schwartzkopf owed him 195 for the food. When he met Schwartzkopf yesterday he demanded that the latter sould pay bim. The men had words and Hoefiner knocked Schwartzkoff down. Both were arrested and taken to the Four Courts. There they gave bond, and when they got outside Hoefiner again began abusing Schwartzkopf and threatened to lick him. Schwartzkopf and threatened to lick him. Schwartzkopf and been rearrested, so that there were two charges against Hoefiner on the docket this morning and only one against Schwartzkopf. The former took a continuance until to morrow, and, although the latter declared himself ready for trial, his case also had to go over, as they were counter-charges.

AN ENCHANTED GARDEN.

A GORGEOUS PICTURE TO BE PRESENTED AT THE EXPOSITION TO-NIGHT.

the Stage—A Benefit for Gilmore—The Success of A. O. U. W. Night—Jewish Night Declared Off and a French Pro-gramme Substituted.

AST night was cer tainly a success. The A. O. U. W. turned out in full force, and AST night was cortainly a success. The A. O. U. W. turned out in full force, and one of the largest audiences that ever gathered in the hall was present then. After the march, "Our Boys," which was dedicated to the order, the curtain cose and disclosed a splendid picture of the late Father Unorder, the curtain rose and disclosed a splendid picture of the late Father Up-splendid picture of the late Father Upchurch, the founder of the order. It was a present from Gilmore to the A. O. U. W. and it was received with deafen. W. W. and it was received with deafen. It will be handsomely set and filled with the most charming children in gorgeous apparel, who will entertain the andlence with fancy dances. The class has been rained to some new and pretty figures, and the dances will be led by Glimore's full band. The entertainment will be exceedingly beautiful, and it has the charm of novelty, as it will differ in every respect from anything eyer seen here.

It has been said that Gilmore was going to Kausas City, but that is not true. A part of his band is going to the Kaw, but St. Louis is the only city in the West that has the full band. One section will go to Kansas City and the other to New York.

On Thursday night the election will take place, and it is going to be a lively one. The Republicans are making every effort to carry it and to overcome the effect of the Democratic victory at the last election. Both parties are making a bitter fight and enlisting all their followers in the campaign. The people are easily roused to interest because the reward to the lucky ones will be great and worthy of the event. Four splendid prizes have been offered, and the ones who make the best guesses will receive them. The lady who is most expert in the art of divination will receive a scalakin sack from Scruggs, Vanderwoort & Barney. The successful gentleman will be given a gold watch by the Mormod-Jaccard Jewelry Co., and the boy and wirl who come the nearest to the correct number will receive a bioycle and tricycle from the Wim. Bart Dry Goods Co. These are the prizes that are offered to the competitore, and some hearts will be made happy when they carry away the rewards.

To-morrow evening was to have been Jewish night, and the directors of the Exposition wanted to have Dr. Sonneschien's choir sing some selections, but on account of some previous engagements the choir could not be obtained and the programme had to be changed.
Wednesday will now be French night, and the musical programme will consist of French alv, the national hymn and the melodies of the land. There will also be a drill of the Emerald Cadets, which may seem an incongruity at first, but the Cadets are a Zousve Company, wearing a French uniform which is exceedingly pretty and appropriate to the occasion. They drill like Frenchmen too.
